

Animal memories

Annotation

Paulo understands and can explain that different outcomes are possible in a chance situation.

Problem: Animal memories

The teacher and a student are playing memory pairs with animal cards.

The teacher asks the student:

Which card will you choose to turn over now?

Student Response

Paulo: I might turn over that one (pointing to a face-down card).

Teacher: Tell me why you are choosing that one.

Paulo: Well, it could be that one maybe.

Teacher: Tell me more about that.

Paulo: Because I haven't seen another tiger one yet, and that one hasn't been turned over. But it might not be. It might be that one (pointing to another face-down card).
